HARMONIC HANUKKAH/CHRISTMAS BLEND

The Regional Symphonic Band joined with the Sippican Chorus for the annual Yuletide concert at Bristol Auditorium on Sunday. All of the auditorium seats which are still usable were filled with an appreciative audience who greeted the program with thunderous approval. Tri-County Music President John Atkinson was the commentator for the band and poured all of his zest and enthusiasm into his presentation.

The band, under the baton of John Pandolfi, started the program with Deck the Halls in a light-hearted version that was full of musical surprises. Christmas Medley dis-level, which was a visual loss, became obvious after the intermission. The Sippican Chorus marched in with illuminated candles to form a tier in the rear stage. This allowed Conductor Pandolfi to lead both band and chorus in an integrated unit. The "Winter Celebration" segment of the show written by Arthur Frackenpohl proved very different and extremely entertaining. The mix of Jewish history and music was tied into the Christmas music with a narrative line by Vernon L. Ingraham. The chorus and band blended beautifully into this story/medley in a number of songs, some familiar and some new to the ear. The chorus had a wonderful time with "The Last Month of the Year" in particular, a most pleasing chime-like piece with lighthearted air. The whole segment was well received by the audience which came with eager expectation and, as always, was fulfilled and refreshed by the experience.

played host to all of the audience in a Christmas Wassail in the cafeteria. The table was most beautifully decorated and set under the direction of Mrs. David McCormack. The centerpiece sparkled with glittering silver snowflakes which were also scattered about the table top. Giant punch bowls and hundreds of decorated holiday cookies completed the treat which was enjoyed by the more than six hundred people who attended. The wassail was the contribution of many volunteers and was most appreciated.

In addition to these benches, the Leos will build another at the bus stop at the corner of Main Street and Route 6 in front of the Deli at the request of the Selectmen. The town will provide the forms for that project. The money for the Shipyard Park materials was earned by the Leo Club in their annual bike drawing, and the location was chosen by the Selectmen.

Mattapoissett Grange

Mattapoissett Grange held its bi-monthly meeting last Thursday night in the Grange Hall. Manuel Roderick, master of Sippican Pomona, was the honored guest.

Under standing committee reports, the sunshine chairman, who was reported ill, had sent Thanksgiving cards to the Grange shut-ins; also a card to Mary Renahan who was in the hospital but now in the Bristol Nursing Home.

Under new business, it was voted to omit the next meeting, December 20th, due to the combined Christmas party with the Juniors on that night, the party to start at 7 P.M. On the exchange of gifts, the Subordinate members are to designate their gifts for man or woman, the Juniors, boy or girl. This way will help Santa when he distributes the gifts. The worthy master appointed the committee to help with the party and a committee will be appointed by the Junior master.

It was also voted to omit the monthly pot luck supper in December.

Another GRAND IDEA!

(from the National Bank of Fairhaven)

Our first was 'Big Doc', our Round-the-Clock Teller. And your response has been fantastic. Folks really enjoy banking out front. We know because so many have told us so. But now we'd like to say 'thanks' for the way you've taken to our 24-hour partner. We're letting Big Doc deal out an extra $1000 this holiday season. We've got a notion the money might come in handy the next few weeks. For twenty lucky people who've found out how easy and convenient it is to bank out front on their own time at the National Bank of Fairhaven.

Big Doc is tucking away an extra $50 bank certificate in someone's withdrawal envelope: it started December 10 and continues through December 31. There'll be 20 envelopes in all. A winner every day throughout the holiday season. If you happen to get lucky, the $50 is yours to use as you want. Buy gifts, pay bills, or put right back into your savings or checking. We don't care. We just want you to know how grand we feel about the whole thing.

APARTMENT VARIANCE DENIED

The application of Chart Realty for a variance to permit the construction of a proposed 42 unit apartment complex on Harbor Road, Mattapoisett Neck, has been denied by the Mattapoisett Board of Appeals. The hearing was held on Thursday, November 15, 1973.

NO SELECTMEN'S MEETING

There was no business transacted at the Mattapoisett Selectmen's meeting this last Tuesday because of the absence of two Selectmen who attended another meeting.

GRASS ROOTS FORESIGHT

It is of interest to refer back to a May 16, 1973 letter from the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen to President Richard Nixon. The Selectmen wrote to request a price freeze on gasoline and related fuels. They wrote, "These fuels are rapidly becoming more scarce in New England and the prices are climbing proportionately. It is felt that such action (price freeze) is most urgent for the well being of our people, and any delay in establishing strict price con-

The New England Telephone Company has requested a hearing on a proposed conduit location on Mechanic Street from #2 man-hole northerly to Route 6 for an approximate 575 feet of conduit line. The hearing will be scheduled for 7:45 P.M. on Tuesday, December 18th.

The Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen has received an acknowledgment and thanks from Senator Edward Kennedy for comment on the fuel shortage and steps proposed to meet the current crisis. On November 5th, the Board wrote to Senators Kennedy and Edward Brooke and Governor Francis Sargent urging the quick passage of Daylight Saving legislation in order to conserve fuel.

Senator John Aylmer has forwarded a copy of a letter that he has written to Governor Sargent on November 30th. In this message Aylmer strongly urged the Governor

The amount owed is $11,470,212.87. He also urged that the Governor not pocket veto legislation which would reimburse the cities

Mr. Charles Morgan, superintendent of the Mattapoisett Water Department, has reported to Selectmen that an 8-inch water main has been installed via Tallman Street to the Old Hammondtown School. This main, now in operation, completes the loop in the system. A flow test shows an increase in flow and pressure in both hydrants which have been tested. The main has been purified and is fully operational.

Fish Conservation Bill

STUDDS TESTIFIES BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE ON 200-MILE BILL

Rep. Gerry E. Studds, D-Mass., last week told a Senate committee that passage of his 200-mile fish conservation bill is needed immediately because "to do anything less would be to play Russian roulette with our fishermen, and with the fish off our coasts."

Studds, who is the main sponsor of the bill in the House, testified before the Senate Commerce Committee whose chairman, Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington, introduced the bill in the Senate.

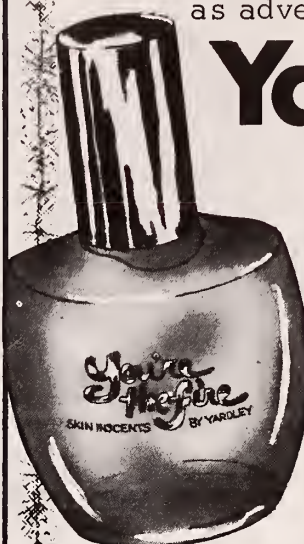

"Mr. Chairman, last June I joined you in filing this legislation," Studds said.

"I believe speedy action is necessary to protest our coastal fish from decimation at the hands of foreign fleets. So far, the crunch has been felt primarily off New England, with species such as the haddock being reduced below the point of commercial viability, and other species -- the yellow-tail flounder, cod, mackerel, sea scallops and lobster -- now being severely threatened."

Studds warned that if the United States were to wait for the Law of the Sea Conference to reach an international agreement -- "it would probably be some time between 1980 and 1985 before enough countries have ratified the resulting agreement to cause it to go into effect.

"I believe we cannot afford to depend upon speedy action from the Law of the Sea Conference to stop the decimation of our fish stocks,"

"We must take unilateral action now."

The Studds/Magnuson 200-mile fish conservation bill would extend the United States protection, regulation and control of fishing to 200-miles off the United States coastline. It would not extend the United States territorial waters beyond the present three-mile limit.

"Recognizing that international treaties should govern the situation, as soon as they are adequate to the need," Studds told the Senate committee, "the bill has a built-in repealer clause, to guarantee that it will operate only in the interim until a Law of the Sea treaty enters into force."

"Shortly and simply, S. 1988 extends the jurisdiction of the United States to protect these fish from extinction while a Law of the Sea agreement is being written."

"I urge this Committee to act favorably on the bill as soon as possible," Studds concluded his testimony. "To do anything less would be to play Russian Roulette with our fishermen, and with the fish off our coasts."

Letter to the Editor

The December issue of Federation Topics of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs quotes a letter received by their State President from the Education Chairman and General Federation of Women's Clubs (about 11,000,000 membership):

"I am writing you this morning because I feel our country is in grave danger of forgetting that in our democracy a person is considered innocent until proved guilty.

"You are well aware of all the charges being made against President Nixon including the ugly, cutting insinuations and innuendoes about him, his family, and his personal friends that are being fed to the public by word of mouth and the printed page - not one of which has been substantiated.

"Perhaps he has made mistakes - what President or Congressman or anyone else hasn't? Many people have disagreed with him on various measures - in our democracy we have that privilege. However, this is no excuse for the belittling, the ridiculing and the character assassination he has undergone for over ten months.

"Yet, not one critic has come up with a man who can handle the delicate negotiations with Russia, China, South America, the Middle East countries, Europe, etc. better than President Nixon and his Secretary of State....

"If you are as concerned as I am about this matter, won't you stop right now and send a telegram or a post card to your Congressman and tell him that you support the President and it's time to get on with the business of actual government.

"You might also drop an encouraging note to Mrs. Nixon, the girls, or even the President himself.

"THEN - will you please call five or more of your friends, ask them to write their congressmen and also ask each of them to call 5 or more of their friends - and so on and on until we have reached responsible women and men all over the country....."

With the birthday of The Prince of Peace coming soon - and the President working hard for a Generation of Peace, why not do it now?

It hypnotizes the eye and bruises the ear -- and it may scare the living daylights out of more than a few playgoers."

MARITIME ACADEMY DEDICATES BUILDINGS

The 82-year-old Massachusetts Maritime Academy today (Friday, December 7) dedicated six buildings, four residence halls, and the stadium, 'in memory and honor of officials and graduates who have served with honor and distinction in various fields of endeavor.

The impressive ceremonies, beginning at 10 A.M. also included the re-christening of the new Academy training ship, "Bay State", which climaxed the series of plaque unveilings in the respective buildings.

Rear Admiral Lee F. Harrington, Academy president, was the keynote speaker, paying tribute to personalities being honored, and six graduates who lost their lives at sea in the tragic sinking of the freighter, S. S. Panosceanic Faith, in the North Pacific on October 9, 1967.

More than a score of dignitaries and representatives of families joined in the formal dedication exercises which began in the Academy gymnasium and proceeded for separate unveilings to the new library, dining hall, science and administration building, marine laboratories, power plant, the stadium and four residence halls.

Philip M. Lowe of Brookline, representing the Board of Trustees of the state college system, brought the official greetings at the opening program. President Harrington presented miniature plaques to those being honored, or members of their family, and a special gift to Howard Nickerson of New Bedford, former member of the Academy Board of Trustees, and former member of the Academy Board of Commissioners before the Academy was linked to the state college system.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Dr. Richard F. Wilcox, an alumnus, class of 1945, who is pastor of the First Congregational Church, Fall River.

The master of ceremonies was Capt. Ralph N. Levesque of Middleboro, Captain of Cadets.

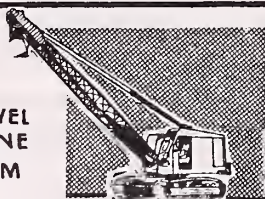

Following the recessional, with music provided by the Academy band, the entire group toured the respective buildings for dedicatory ceremonies at each tablet.

Members of the Dedication Committee were Capt. Joseph J. Grazulis of Rockland, Lt.

STUDDS HELPS PUSH LOBSTER BILL THROUGH HOUSE

Washington, D.C., December 4 -- "The House today voted to give the American Lobster the designation 'Creature of the Continental Shelf' and the long overdue protection of United States law," Rep. Gerry E. Studds, D-Mass., said today.

The House also passed, by a resounding 405-0, the "Eastland Resolution" committing Congress to support the United States fishing industry.

"I voted for the Eastland Resolution which expressed the sense of the Congress that we must begin to protect and support our domestic fishing industry," Studds said.

Speaking on behalf of the Resolution on the House floor, Studds called the attention of his colleagues to an amendment which he had added to the Resolution when it was approved by the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee. Studds won approval of language stating "that the Congress is fully prepared to act immediately to provide interim measures to conserve overfished stocks and to protect our domestic fishing industry."

"Let this be a message," Studds said, "not just to capitals of foreign fishing countries, but particularly to our own Department of State." He called for prompt action to fulfill this pledge by action on the Studds-Magnuson bill to extend our fishing jurisdiction to 200 miles.

"After much behind the scenes maneuvering a small group of us from New England were finally able to gain the support of the majority of our House colleagues and pass the major lobster protection bill.

"What we have done today," Studds said following the voice vote, "is to pass and send to the Senate an important piece of legislation which will help our lobstermen and may eventually provide a more adequate supply of and lower prices for the lobster.

"The problem has been that foreign fishing fleets with sophisticated equipment and little regard for minimum size or egg-bearing limitations have been overfishing what is uniquely an American marine product.

"The House has now clearly stated that the lobster is the property of the United States and may not be taken from the Continental Shelf without our permission.

"Although we still must win Senate approval and we face the possibility that President Nixon may subsequently veto this legislation, I am encouraged that a growing number of Congressmen are becoming educated to the plight of our fishermen, particularly in New England."

FUEL CRISIS DANGER TO ELDERLY WARNS PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

The people in the greatest danger if the fuel crisis reaches predicted levels are the elderly, especially those living alone on small and limited incomes, according to the Massachusetts Public Health Association.

The MPHA has issued a statement to over one thousand members, who are affiliated with health-related organizations throughout the state, urging them to initiate programs which will seek out the elderly who are living on restricted incomes, and help to plan for local programs of care for them, if they are faced with critical periods of inadequately heated living quarters this winter.

Many of these people who have incomes of less than $3,000 a year are faced with their own particular crisis, according to James J. Callahan, Jr., Ph.D., MPHA president. "Even if fuel oil is available, the price is going up so rapidly they won't be able to afford it," Callahan warns.

"An additional hazard is obtaining adequate nourishment, which is always a serious problem for the elderly living alone. With the increased costs of fuel, they may often be faced with the decision of whether to buy food or fuel. The danger of slow starvation for many of these people is becoming a very real threat unless we can reach out to help them."

Some solutions available are developing temporary shelters for this group in private homes and public buildings, where they could live and be fed adequately during any emergency period. Also, Callahan suggests that
